WARWICK JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL
Newport News, Virginia

Foreword:

School is many things. The program includes a variety of activities, and much living, and many lessons. But the chief business of school goes on in the classroom. And so, this year, the annual staff chose to emphasize "the books" and the "classroom" in telling the story of Warwick Junior High for 1960 - '61.

Textbooks are the basic source of subject content. In our school, a variety of materials are available for classroom use, but textbooks are essential guides. Free books go to each student for each subject. Supplementary texts are available from several sources.

In September, when school begins, one of the first routine operations is the issuance of textbooks. Two or three students from each class come to the bookroom with requisitions from each teacher. Books are then taken to classes and distributed.

Mrs. Taback

$$T = \frac{P^{N} + W^{3}U + A(I_1 I_2 I_3)}{S}$$

Suppose our problem is to derive a formula for illustrating the variables that make Mrs. Taback the constant in an effective classroom situation.

If we reduce the various "sets" of Mrs. Taback's qualities to a minimum number of reals, one solution might be this: Patience to the nth degree, plus Wisdom in three dimensions, multiplied by Understanding of others, plus the Ability to Instruct, Interest, and Inspire young people, all over consideration for Self.

The 1961 Cavalier is dedicated to Mrs. T.

A Lady Of Varied Interests---------

Mrs. Taback is a mother and homemaker as well as a teacher. Away from school, she spends as much time as she can with her husband, her son Max, and her daughter Anne.

The Tabacks have a family "project" up on the Warwick River where they go boat riding or fish from the pier that juts out from the "retreat" they own there.

At school, Mrs. Taback is usually busy in her classroom, or is working with her colleagues to get through the tons of papers that have to be checked.

In her work or at play, at home, or vacationing, or at school, Mrs. Taback is a favorite member of the group.

Before School:

School buses begin to arrive at Junior High shortly after eight o'clock in the morning, and if all goes well most students are in or around the building by 8:30. First bell is at 8:40.

The halls are very crowded when 1600 students, more or less, invade the place. (We're overcrowded by about 400.) This has been especially true this year. One of the big problems in getting the school day started is literally a matter of getting into the building and through the halls to the appointed place and class.

But once we make it, we find our lockers and put in and take out the materials necessary to make the rounds through another school day. Many lockers are shared by two or more people, since there are not nearly enough to go around.

Space is a problem all over. In the center picture below Mr. Bachman selects materials he needs from his personal army footlocker which he brought from home and uses to keep test papers, books, records, and all other teacher supplies. He is one of our "floating" teachers, and this year not even a storage cabinet was available.

Students may use the library before school, as well as other times.

Mrs. Colburn checks audio-visual aids for the day.

Teachers check mailboxes on way to classes.

Students ask office staff members a few thousand questions.

Administration

Mr. Thomas E. Baines, pictured at right, came to our school this year as principal. Mr. Jack M. Custer and Mrs. George Passage, above, left, are assistant principals. Our school secretaries, upper right, are Mrs. Vaughan and Mrs. Stutz.

Miss Helen Haverty, seated at left, is the certified librarian for our school, and Mrs. Colburn is her assistant.

Mr. Will H. Knox, at right, is guidance counselor, and our school nurse is Mrs. Bateman.

One of the many "duties" of homeroom teachers is the distribution of a multitude of "forms" as Mrs. Weaver demonstrates.

And, especially at the first of the year, "tons" of money are collected. Here Mrs. Anderson is flooded as she writes receipts.

Homeroom

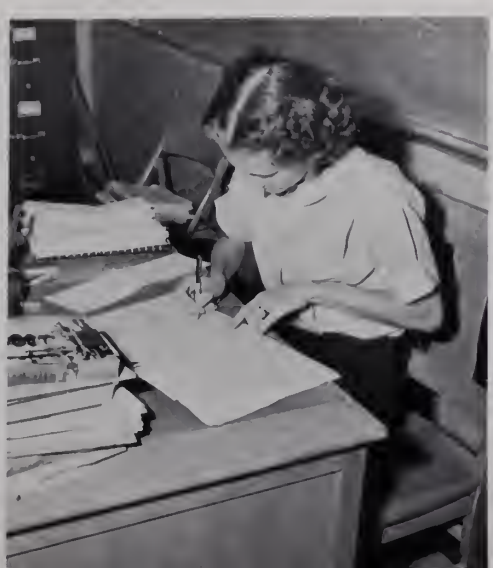
Each student reports to one of 42 homerooms first thing every morning. Sometimes this 10 minute period is pretty hectic. Rolls are checked and a great variety of administrative business is conducted.

Most homerooms have about 40 students.

Elections of various kinds are held during "Homeroom period".

SCA homeroom representative gives report on meetings and plans.

Mrs. Hall wrestles homeroom register.



Ceremonies, like the pledge of allegiance, are held in homeroom.

The Ninth Grade

Our ninth grade students in past years have been our "graduates", since Junior High, to date, has enrolled only eighth and ninth graders. This June, however, we will not lose all our "seniors" because approximately half will remain for the new tenth grade.

As the '61 CAVALIER is being prepared, the future of Junior High is somewhat uncertain. The junior high plan is being discarded in the new city of Newport News, and Warwick Junior is to become a five-year high school.

Among ninth grade students are outstanding members of the student body. These are the "older" students, and many of the group leaders naturally are ninth graders. Cavalier athletic teams, SCA councils, school clubs, and other organizations have given ninth grade students extensive experience in leadership.

We indicated earlier that the theme of the '61 CAVALIER is scholarship. There are hundreds of students in our ninth grade who are evidence of our claim that Warwick Junior is accomplishing its purpose as an educational institution. Future doctors, engineers, government specialists, scientists, and other professionals of the futrue are to be found among the people pictured on the following pages.

Regardless of the future plans of our students, each one is given an opportunity at Junior High to develop and to learn. Each is a respected individual - each has his own hopes and aspirations; and each gets a chance to make the most of himself.

Department Chairmen

The Departments

For purposes of organization, the program at Junior High is composed of ten departments each headed by a chairman who acts as a sort of liaison person between the departments and the principal. These department chairmen also comprise the "planning committee" of the faculty, and meet with the principal at regular intervals for discussion of general problems.

Each department conducts at least one meeting each month. The department chairmen preside at these meetings. Each chairman is a regular classroom teacher.

In between times.

It is no easy task to picture all the moods of Warwick Junior High, and certainly there are many lesser activities which cannot be classified as before, during, or after school.

As an example, the three telephone booths are frequently scenes of hurried calls home for "special permission" or other "urgent" messages. This activity knows no limits of time.

Also, there are many special events that do not readily fall into any particular schedule. This year, for example, being an election year for the nation, the students got into the spirit of things with their own campaign. As it turned out, the picture we are using shows more of the loser's efforts than of the victor's.

And while we are about this business of trying to show how we live at Junior High, let us extend a cordial invitation to any who wish to visit us in person. Parents always find a warm welcome here. And this has been true since the school was organized in 1956.

The Eighth Grade

Whatever the future holds for Junior High, our "material" always depends upon our eighth graders. These are our beginners . . . the "stuff" from which our student body is made. Eighth grade is now part of the high school program. At this stage of the game, students begin to plan their entire high school career.

Several subjects previously not available to eighth graders are now offered in this, their first year of high school. Algebra, for example, is one of these; so is Latin.

All our students carry a full six-period schedule of classes . . . . there are no "study halls". In the eighth grade, students may elect to take, in addition to required subjects, music, shop, home ec., art, or one of three foreign languages.

The students, all 1600 of them, individually and collectively, are the chief concern at Warwick Junior High.

The Program

Enrollment this year averages about 420 eighth grade girls, 450 eighth grade boys, 370 ninth grade girls, and 350 ninth grade boys.

There are 63 teachers on the instructional staff. Courses include English, social studies, world geography, general mathematics, algebra, general science, biology, art, Latin, French, Spanish, band and choral music, drama and speech, homemaking, industrial arts and physical education.

Adjustments to the program are made when the need is indicated, and refinements are made annually, in order to offer the best possible education for the students. Algebra and the foreign languages are now offered in the eighth grade. The program is expanded as needs arise.

Perhaps the most important characteristic of the program at Junior High is that every effort is made to tailor the program to the needs of the students. The aim is to fit the program to the students who come to this school.

In other words, the chief concern at Junior High is the student himself.

To show the various phases of our program in operation, the annual staff has grouped the courses into six "periods", plus a lunch period, to conform to the normal six-period school day, followed by the activities that usually take place in the afternoon or evening.

Following the "before school" and "homeroom" activities, all 1600 students report to a first period class.

And first period might mean science, or any one of the other course offerings.

These pictures illustrate the efforts that are made in many different ways to assure students an opportunity for the best possible education. Mr. Knox, our guidance counselor, talks things over with students; Miss Haverty, our librarian, is ready to help individuals or groups in a thousand different ways; Mr. Williams, as a representative classroom teacher, is ready, willing and competent to guide, direct, and instruct each student in a particular subject field.

The Science Teachers
Seated, left to right: Miss Evans, Mrs. Somerville, Miss vonPippin, and Mrs. Pleasants. Standing: Mr. Drudge, Mrs. Marohn, Mrs. Croke, Miss McFadden, Miss Gilliam, and Mr. Harmon.

First Period: Science

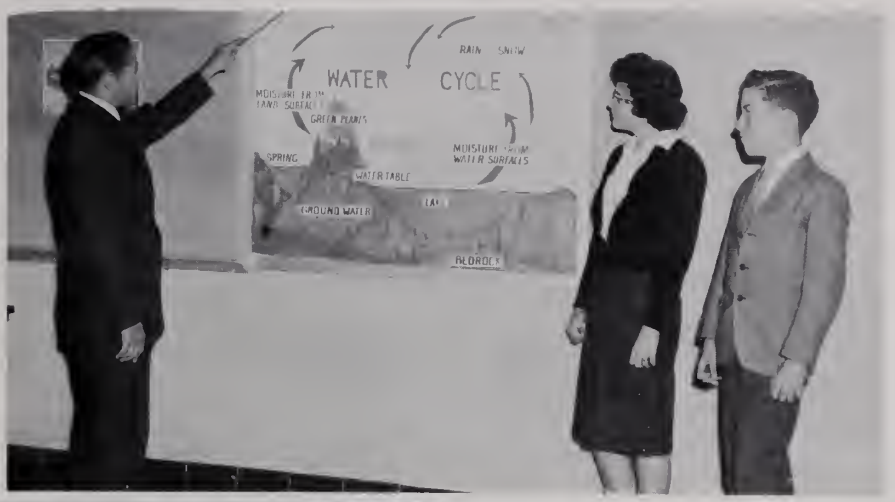
This is the age of science. Who knows but that some of Junior High's current crop of budding young scientists may one day explore the moon, or pilot a space ship?

There is a great deal of learning to be done between eighth grade science and those trips to outer space, but we have to begin somewhere.

Our students begin with a course in "general" science in the eighth grade, followed by a similar course in the ninth, or they may elect a special science course in the eighth grade which prepares them for biology in the ninth. Our science department offers these four courses at the present time.

Of course not all science is devoted to plans for advanced study of the universe. All of us need to know about our environment, to understand such things as weather, for example, in order to make the most of living right here on our own planet.

$$6\,CO_2 + 6\,H_2O \rightarrow C_6H_{12}O_6 + 6\,O_2$$

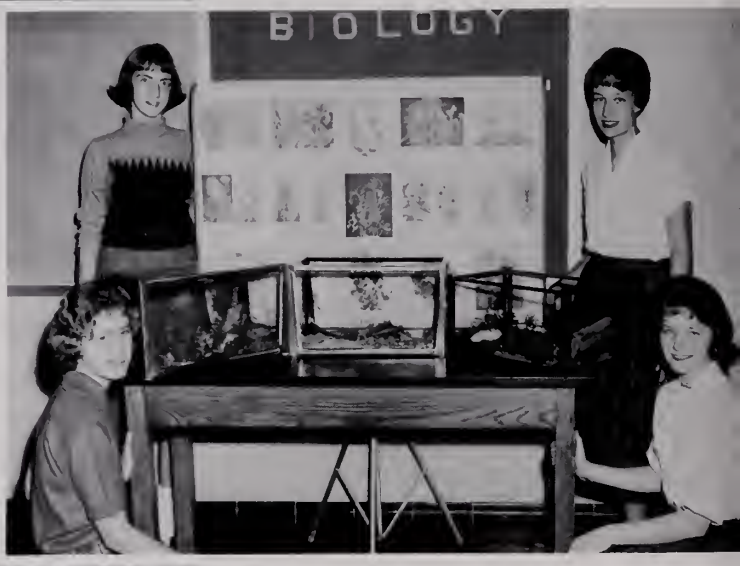


Tommy Farmer explains chart showing water cycle to Billy Dougan and Cathy Yontz in a class taught by Miss Evans.

Students in Miss von Pippin's science class look over charts and gadgets which they have prepared to illustrate the scientific study of weather.

"The scientific method" might be a good title for this picture as Carol Lee Barlow, Jeanne Styve, and Jimmy Richardson conduct experiment under the watchful eye of Mr. Drudge.

Science students Martha Gentry and Reid Page inspect "models" showing the arrangement of atoms in different materials. The study of atomic energy is of special interest locally since the shipyard builds atomic powered ships.



Jo Anne Clark, Donna Foushee, Peggy Sassman, and Sharon Fleet display some of the flora and fauna studied in biology. The "fauna" in the picture is hardly visible - he's a very small hamster.

Biology is new in our school this year, and has proved to be a very popular subject.

Anyone for fishing? Jimmy Boon, Ann Rollings, Peggy Eggelston, Ann Nuckles, Gale Mathis, and Barbara Wainwright pose with some of the favorite subject-matter of the new biology course at Junior High.

Miss Evans checks a demonstration experiment in science class, closely observed by Sam Allaun, Melanie Patterson, and Jeff Hinson.

Mrs. Pleasants points out special features to be observed under the microscopes as David Rutledge and Dorothy Correll see things "they've never seen before". This is a very familiar scene in biology classes at Junior High.

Everyone is interested these days in space travel, rockets, missiles, and the other phases of the "newer" science. In the picture at right, Miss vonPippin hears Karen Baals give an explanation in class.

Second Period: Mathematics

$x^2-7x-8=0$
$(x+1)(x-8)=0$
$x+1=0$
$x=-1$
$x-8=0$
$x=8$

Emphasis these days is on understanding mathematical concepts and the practical applications of math.

The so-called "new mathematics", which has received so much attention in the last few years, is gradually influencing the math program. Department meetings are frequently concerned with ways in which the program can be enriched and expanded.

Both general math and algebra are offered in the eighth grade, and again in the ninth, so that two years of algebra, as well as general math, are offered.

Mrs. Taback is chairman of the mathematics department, and there are ten other teachers of math at Junior High this year. The department will be expanded, of course, when the school is extended to include higher years of work.

The Mathematics Teachers

Herb Soles looks over a display of math projects drawn or made by students.

Classwork, with books, paper and pencil is still a major activity for learning.

Kenny Simmons works an algebra problem, then explains it.
Can you find the errors?

A little teamwork on a problem sometimes helps.

Students demonstrate use of compass, protractor, ruler, at the chalkboard.

"Real" objects of mathematics, like solids, and the old abacus, help students get the idea.

No matter what gadgets or gimmicks are devised to aid in the instruction of mathematics, probably nothing will ever completely replace the practice, under supervision, done at "the board". Below, Jimmy Boon, Jimmy Goalder, David Edge, and Michael Smith ponder problems in an Algebra II class.

One way to learn is to "make things", like charts and posters and similar projects. And it's more fun when they are displayed so others may also visualize, for example, "prism", or the "hypotenuse law".

In the picture below, students in a math class are deep in the throes of an all-important TEST. Some pull hair, some sleep, some scratch, some give up, and some just dream that they aren't really there at all. But grades come out, just the same.

The English Teachers

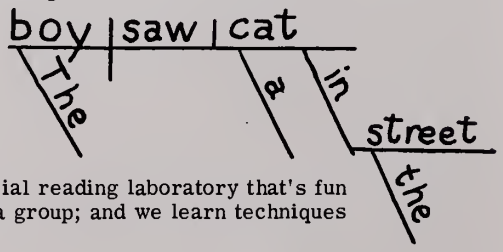
Third Period: English

English, of course, is one of the courses in school which every student is required to study. Basically, this involves our eighth graders and ninth graders in work with grammar and literature.

But we learn in a number of different ways, as the pictures illustrate.



A lot of reading and writing is required in these classes; sometimes we diagram sentences to show their structure and understand the parts of speech; sometime we "act out" stories we have read; the school has a special reading laboratory that's fun to use and helps improve reading; we get a chance to speak before a group; and we learn techniques of discussion on panels and in debate.

Karen and Sharon Spencer are "naturals" for acting out the leads in "The Prince and The Pauper".

One of the most usual scenes in any classroom is this one illustrating individual help being given by English teacher, Mr. Gray.

The art of communication is practiced in many classes in a number of different ways. Under the tutelage of Mrs. Carter, this group engages in a panel discussion. Dick Osborne is speaking. Other students are Reid Page, C. W. Hornsby, Phyllis Price, Anita Deboe and Linda Avent.

No part of education is considered to be of greater importance than reading. Our school has used a special reading "laboratory" for several years. Mr. Petty is shown at left distributing materials to four students in one of the English classes which use the reading laboratory.

The "writers" at left are illustrating some of the jobs performed by professionals who have provided us with good newspapers, books, and magazines. English, of course, is the primary tool in all these trades.

In the two other pictures at lower left, students in Mrs. Hall's English classes study the characters in story of "David Copperfield", and try to capture some of the atmosphere of this famous tale. Setting up some of the scenes of the play in class helps to lend realism to the characters and the story.

In the picture at lower right, David Prince is shown making an oral report to a class taught by Mrs. Smith. Students in English classes, particularly, gain experience in communicating ideas to other people in a number of different ways.

Although there are many different approaches to the teaching of English at Warwick Junior High School, and the students learn in a number of different ways, there are some classroom activities which are more or less standard year after year and in class after class. There has to be direct instruction by the teacher, standing in front of the class and "lecturing". The top picture illustrates this, as Mr. Gray "tells" his English class the difference between active and passive verbs. In the picture below Mrs. Williams observes three English students as they diagram sentences, another "standard" procedure.

Fourth Period: Social studies

The social studies program at Junior High this year includes the new course in World Geography in the ninth grade. The entire program is built around the need of the students to learn more about citizenship in their own community, the state, the nation, and the world.

Since 1960 was a year for a national presidential election, the department presented an "election" assembly and a mock election was conducted by the department in which all students at the school voted.

Current events are of primary importance to the students in social studies. Through the social studies classes the students learn to appraise "the news" and through learning become interested in current social problems.

The Social Studies Teachers

As the pictures on this page illustrate, the social studies department makes wide use of maps, charts, globes, and visual aids of all kinds, mechanical and otherwise. In the top, left picture, students discuss some "then" and "now" maps of the United States. In the top, right, Mrs. Lawrence and a student assistant prepare to use the opaque projector to show slides to a class. And in the picture below, a class listens as an oral report is made.

In the social studies classes, the students are given many opportunities to discuss ideas, and they learn not only to present an opinion intelligently, but to respect the opinions of other people.

Organized debate is one scheme for discussion of social studies questions. In the top, left picture, Phylora Feeback, Myrna Edington, and Walter Hardy give Thomas Newman an opportunity to make his point. Another type of organization for discussion is the "group" procedure illustrated by the picture at the top, right. Here Miss Olney's class divides itself into smaller groups and each of these sections goes after the solution to a problem. In the lower picture Nickie DiMarino points out one of the "leaders of the world" in a class taught by Mrs. Helms. In this chart made by the class, a map of the world is surrounded by pictures of various world statesmen.

The picture at right shows Mr. Bolick and a student assistant preparing to use the movie projector in a social studies class. Movies, slides, and film strips help make the subject matter "come alive" in the social studies classes.

In the lower picture, Mrs. Chavatel and her class listen to an oral report of a study made by one of the students on some topic of interest to the group. Everyone gets a chance to "have his say" in these classes.

Lunch Period:

Meals are served to the students in the school cafeteria in two shifts. Approximately half the students fill the cafeteria each lunch period. Special menus are served for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Daily menus are announced over the school's public address system.

The cafeteria is also the scene of school parties, and the cafeteria is open each morning before school for use as a study hall for all who wish to use it.

Last year the students began to use the auditorium during the lunch period for viewing movies. This plan is continued this year. After having lunch, the students may, if they wish, go to the auditorium to enjoy the picture being shown there. The snapshot below shows students relaxing during lunch, in the auditorium.

SCA OFFICERS & SPONSOR

Sandra Smith, secretary; David Rutledge, president; Leslie Lustig, treasurer; Mrs. Passage, sponsor; Joseph Winn, chaplain; and Mike Worthington, vice-president.

SCA COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

Sherry Newsome, Dorothy Correll, Donna Fouchee; Carol Lancaster, Lynne Hobart, Peggy Winall, Janet DuVal, Pat Fox, Kenny Simmons, Susan Nelson, Joey Winn.

Student Cooperative Association

Our SCA functions all the time - not just during lunch period. Its executive meetings are usually held before school; some committees meet after school; and its aims and purposes and its work are being pursued all during the day. Assemblies and school parties are two of the special areas handled by our SCA, but they are only examples of what our SCA does. Every student is a member of the SCA.

HOMEROOM SCA REPRESENTATIVES

The Homemaking Teachers and the Industrial Arts Teachers

Fifth Period: Shop, Home Ec. Art, Band, Foreign Language

Homemaking and Industrial Arts have been grouped together in the annual only for purposes of organizing the book - not because these two departments are operating under a single head.

In order to appreciate the work being done, and the practical learning that takes place in these two departments, a person has to visit the classes. Both departments are well equipped, and both are staffed by competent, well trained teachers. It's probably true that in no other two departments in school will there be found as much enthusiasm on the part of the students in classes as in the home economics and shop departments.

In order to keep the class pictures in the same section of the annual with the staff members, home economics and shop pictures appear together on the following pages.

Dressmaking occupies Becky Eames, Mary Worthington, Paula Jones, and Linda Bloomfield.

The picture above shows students at work in one of the two main school shops. The instructor in this shop is Mr. Hughes, and most jobs done here are concerned with wood-working. Boys learn correct use of a number of power tools as well as hand tools.

Mrs. Orr, one of the homemaking teachers demonstrates childcare for future homemakers in one of her classes. All phases of homemaking are included in the courses in home economics at Junior High.

The picture below catches two home economics girls checking the oven to see what's cookin'. The home economics students have the benefits of using modern, efficient equipment, and the purpose is to learn to use it to the best possible advantage.

Mr. Brown watches two of his students, (below) as they check electrical equipment in the shop. The use of testing meters and other devices is one of many valuable lessons learned as the boys go through these shop experiences.

And In Addition.....

A wide range of electives are available to students at Warwick Junior High. There are no "study halls" here, or, saying it another way, every room is a place to study. Each student takes six subjects, and among these each may elect to take art, music, (both instrumental and choral), speech arts, Latin, French, or Spanish. Students also may elect to take home economics or industrial arts.

Mr. Chavatel and Mr. Montgomery are our art teachers; Mr. Nims and Mrs. Poindexter teach Latin; Mr. Bruno is band director; Miss Setzer teaches speech and drama; Miss Feist teaches French; Miss Bayne teaches choral music; and Mrs. Windley teaches Spanish.

Our band is considered to be one of the outstanding such organizations in this area, year after year. The art people have earned a tremendous reputation for service to the school and all the other organizations in the school. Aside from the teaching of art, in his classes, Mr. Chavatel has an art service club which is always busy doing art work, illustrations, posters, decorations, and so on, for school groups. Latin has become a great favorite here, and the French classes and Spanish classes are popular, too. A new group this year is our mixed chorus, led by Miss Bayne.

These teach art, band, choral music, speech arts French Latin, and Spanish

Mr. Montgomery and students check ceramics in one of the art department's kilns.

Students contemplate objects of art made in art classes.

Billy Withrow and friends use tools in wood sculpture.

Miss Feist checks out the new listening equipment in French class.

Brook Carter, Carolyn Lancaster, and Margaret Kuhn install Latin display.

French students not only "listen" to their lessons, they also record.

In the second row; Karen Johnson, Rusty Norton, Freddie Meeks, Jerry Allen, Sandy Wilson, Dickie Brushwood, John Henderson, and Chappell Pierce.

In the third row; Harvey Estes, Wayne Lett, Linda Taylor, Hayes Mershon, and Sharon Grant.

In the fourth row; Allen Powell, Keith Conley, Eddie Wilcox, Pam Gillie, Chuck Weiss, Francis Bomberger, Janet Nichols, and David Shupe.

In the back row, on riser; Mike Worthington, Donnie Wright, Bobby Burch, Bill Thompson, Doug Ramsey, and Reid Hudson.

The Cavalier Band has been one of the outstanding organizations at Warwick Junior High since it began operating in 1956.

Our band plays for athletic events, school assemblies, civic parades, and presents regular concerts during the school year. One of the highlights of the school year is the band's annual Christmas Concert.

Cavalier Band

In the second row; Gene Harmon, Jim Nelson, Bill MacArthur, Preston Shanks, Vic Kitchen, Connie Bunn, Courtney Andrews, and Charles Davidson.

In the third row; Arthur Morgan, Elliot Schoonover, Brian White, Bob MacArthur, and Charles Brewer.

In the fourth row; Royal Wood, Paul Joyce, George Sellers, Jim Goalder, and Tom Hodge.

The Cavalier Band is directed by Mr. Donald Bruno, who came to our school when it first opened in 1956. Junior High has had an outstanding band every year since then.

Under Mr. Bruno's direction, not only does the band as a group perform with excellence, but individual members have been honored year after year for superior performance. The Cavaliers have placed a number of students on the All-State Band each year since it was organized.

Mr. Bruno works with elementary school students, as well as with Junior High students, each day of every school week during the year.

The Horns

Below Are The Woodwinds

The Dance Band

The Beginners' Band

The Physical Education Teachers

Sixth Period: Physical Education

Nearly everyone takes "phys. ed." since it is required except in special cases. Like the rest of the school the gyms are crowded, but there is considerable space devoted to physical education. A number of rooms are provided for both boys and girls, although the main gym, or basketball court has to be shared.

Outside space is plentiful, but not much equipment has been added to the playing areas.

Our football team uses the field at the senior high school. Intra-mural games are a big part of our physical educational program.

When autumn weather permits, one favorite exercise is touch football.

The boys above were practicing soccer skills; below, physical fitness tests.

Oh, dear. . .how do I get down from here?

Any time, now. . . . . .

Girls' physical education, as these pictures indicate, is not for "sissies". Besides the regular games, like volley ball pictured at left, tumbling, and work-outs with bars, and other "toning-up" exercises keep the girls trim and fit.
In addition to these physical activities, the girls, as well as the boys, this year are using some of their phys. ed. time to learn to be careful and courteous automobile drivers.

Look, Ma. . .No feet !

Tumbling activities also occupy the boys in physical education classes. Pictures above and below were taken during one of the lecture-demonstrations on safe driving.

During warm weather, the boys, as well as the girls, spend most of their time outside, but when its cold the boys can work up a few muscles with their antics on the mats.

After School:

The last bell of the regular school day rings at 3:25, and most of the students head for home. However, many school activities don't get under way until that 3:25 bell rings.

School clubs and organizations have almost all their meetings after school. Athletic events, of course, are also after hours. The annual staff has done its work after school.

And so it is that one very important phase of life at Junior High is made up of all those activities that take place after school.

FHA Sponsors
Miss Barrow, Mrs. Orr, Miss Thomas.

Future Homemakers of America
Ann M. Ammott Chapter

The constitution of the Future Homemakers of America outlines the purposes of the organization this way:

To promote a growing appreciation of the joys and satisfactions of homemaking; to emphasize the importance of worthy home membership; to encourage democracy in home and community life; to work for good home and family life for all; to promote international good will; to foster the development of creative leadership in home and community life; to provide wholesome individual and group recreation; and to further interest in home economics.

Future Homemakers at Warwick Junior High are girls who are taking or have taken one course, at least, in home economics. The three home economics teachers all serve as sponsors of the club.

The local chapter of the National organization was named in of honor of Mrs. J. D. Amott.

FHA Officers
Standing are Linda Heath, Peggy Bell, Kaye Lester; seated are Frances Herring, Sharon Collier, Janice Butler, Mary Frances Vaughan, Pat Fox, Joan Cowan.

Math Club Officers
Tom Hodge, Gene Fowler, Bruce Hanes, John Willy (president), and Joe Kotanchik.

The Math Club

The main purpose of the math club is to give additional opportunity to those students who are especially interested in mathematics. Although certain high grades must be earned in order for a student to be eligible for membership, all students who wish to do so may attend the meetings.

The math club meets twice each month, after school. Programs usually consist of special speakers from outside the school. These people usually are mathematicians or engineers engaged in one of the local industries.

Members of the Math Club

La Societe Francaise

Clark Williams, president of the French club, points out the country.

La Société Francaise was established in 1959 for the purpose of enriching the students' knowledge of French and of France. Students are eligible for membership if they receive a B or better in French. The club meets bi-monthly, after school. Discussions are held concerning geography, history, and the French culture. Informal conversation in French is conducted among the members.

A "French Day" is planned for this spring. The school will be appropriately decorated, an assembly will be held, and the day will end with a dance.

Members Of The Club

Rosemary Slowiak, vice president; Stephanie Strass, secretary-treasurer; Liz Walker, program chairman.

Art Service Club----

One of the most active and useful clubs at Junior High is our Art Service group. They help any other group which needs posters, displays, or other art work. They decorate for dances. The group is directed by Mr. Chavatel.

Camera Club

Chess Club

History Club

Social studies classes provide the background for an organization of students especially interested in things historical. The group is concerned not only with the things to be learned directly out of books, but also makes some field trips to places of historical interest. The social studies department is, perhaps, one of the best equipped in school, since there are many kinds of materials available to extend the knowledge of those who are interested. The history club makes use of all the types of materials. Sponsors this year are Mrs. Anthony and Mrs. Davis.

President Peter Nickerson makes suggestions to Pam Gillie, Secretary.

The History Club

Drama Students

Scholarship is encouraged in many ways at Junior High. After each six-weeks grading period, an "Honor Roll" of top grades is posted...and carefully checked.

THESE ARE THE LIBRARY HELPERS

In any academic program, the library plays a big part in the opportunities afforded students. Many books also mean much work to be done shelving, checking, cataloging, and handling. This is done by the following students: Terry Jordan, Paul Cluverius, Bernard Thomas, Dwight Butts, Billy Walls, Wilbur Ausbrooks, Johnny Atkins, Bonita Parks, Patricia Watson, Diane LaPlante, Linda Shifflett, Diane Bailey, Phylora Feesback, Maureen Campbell, Catherine Hoggard, Linda Blackwell, Carol Harris, Page Union, Donna Skipper, Robin Parkman, Frances Norris, Linda Brown, Jeannie Smith, Richard Hudson, Jerry Smith, Wayne Shelton, Charles Powers, Richard Canaday, Terry Grinnalds, Arnold Bailey, Stanley Rehim, and Edward Kee.

The Annual Staff

Journalism at Junior High was discontinued three years ago. Up to that time, journalism classes had concentrated on newspaper work and had published the highly successful, award-winning "JUNIOR JOURNAL".

After the course in journalism ceased, the newspaper was dropped and the first Warwick Junior High yearbook, THE CAVALIER, was published in 1959.

At present, volunteer students, without training, meet after school to help put the annual together. Although many "volunteer" to help, the finished product is the work of a small group of people who stuck with the project as best they could.

Sharon Pursifull, Managing Editor, and Mike Squires, Editor-in-Chief.

The Coaches: Tyson, Butler, Petty, and top man Begor.

Unlike previous years, many of the 1960 team players will return for more action in the future, since our school is to become a five-year plant. It is not clear, as the CAVALIER goes to press, just exactly who will stay at our school and who will be transferred to what is now Warwick Senior. At any rate, many of these players will probably see action right here for the remainder of their high school participation.

The Cheerleaders

Much credit for the enthusiasm and spirit displayed at all Cavalier games is due this group of girls. They yelled, and clapped hands, and hopped around, and got all the spectators into the act, too. They were a tireless group, and the team players were always glad to have these girls on our side.

Leaders Of Cheers

So That's The Story For '60-'61

A lot of work and study, and some play too, have gone into this year at Junior High.
As we end our story, we take another brief look at scenes so familiar all around school. Pictured at top, left is one of our "new" teachers, Mr. Fletcher, who replaced Mrs. Somervill in the science department; at center top, Mrs. Carter checks records in the vault; top right, another new science teacher, Mr. Spence, who replaced Mrs. Croke.
At right, its business as usual in the library; lower left, Latin students play bingo with Latin; and at lower right, students in Mr. Montgomery's art class work on some weaving projects.

There's a girl here somewhere, but where ?

These six enjoy a chat in the sun outside the west entrance.

Let's Relax, Now

Hands off, bub. . . . .No kibitzers wanted. I'm thinkin'.

So it's a busy day, from early to late; but most of us do manage a moment now and then to relax. In the picture at top left, Mr. Chavatel and Mr. Petty work and read quietly during one of those rare moments. And in the picture at right, top, Miss Gilliam, Mrs. Gale, and Mr. Dunham take a breather along with Mrs. Williams.

And sometime during the day...

We are very proud of the fact that our building at Warwick Junior High is usually neat and clean. Most students take considerable pride in helping to keep the place "shipshape". But the real job here lies with our custodian, Mr. West.

Mr. West, is on the job morning, noon, and night. His crew of "housekeepers" moves into the rooms right after the last bell rings in the afternoon, and sweeps, mops, cleans, washes chalkboards, and picks up the countless scraps of papers and other materials that get left behind after a day in school.

Mr. West also has the job of keeping the place warm on cold days, doing minor repair work around the building, and passing out certain supplies.

What Next?

What lies ahead, down these halls?

As the '61 CAVALIER goes to press, the only specific information available is that there will be a tenth and an eleventh grade added next year, and additional classrooms are to be built, joining the present plant from the center rear corridor. No work had been started as of March 1.

So, come September '61, when the bells ring again and the clocks tick away first period, second. . . . . .sixth period, "Junior High" will be no more.

Those who knew Warwick Junior High School in her first days know that this was a great school, and that it established a great and wonderful reputation in those early years. The first students of Warwick Junior High are this year graduating from Warwick Senior High School, and these students are reported to be one of the greatest senior classes in the history of that school. Our school must now meet this new challenge, reach for new heights, make anew its reputation in the community. Every student, and every member of the faculty, each in his own way, will help determine the kind of school we will be.

What lies ahead, down these halls? It's a good question, and many, many people are waiting to see it answered. . .in '61. .'62. . .'63. . . .'64. . . . .'65. . . . . .'66. . . . . .'67. . . . . .
